

There has been a lot of discussion at the plane washes and other gatherings about the need for a “bulletin board” for members to communicate.

Well, Schedule Master has a new feature called Forum. This is an area where pilots looking for Safety Pilots, or ride share can post and all members can see the post and reply. This is available now at no extra cost to us.

The screenshot displays the Mang Aero Club, Inc. website interface. At the top left is the Schedule Master logo. The main header reads "Mang Aero Club, Inc." with navigation links for "Logout" and "Training" for user "Joseph McEvoy". A horizontal menu contains "Schedule", "Resource", "User", "Info/Policy", "Comm/Other", "Reports", and "ScheduleMaster Acct". Below this, a secondary menu includes "Messages", "Group Email", "Forum" (circled in red), and "Links".

The "Pilot Forum" section is active, showing a post from "Safety Pilot" by Joseph McEvoy on Monday, June 21, 2010. A red arrow points to the "Pilot Forum" link in the forum list. The left sidebar contains a search bar, help text, and navigation options like "REPLY", "start a new thread", "back to forum list", "collapse threads", and "expand threads".

At the bottom, contact information for Mang Aero Club, Inc. is provided, along with the local time (03:22PM, UTC: 1922Z), copyright notice (© 1995-2010 Time Sync, Inc.), and a statement that "Schedule Master is a Service of Time Sync, Inc." accompanied by the Schedule Master logo.
